PREMISE: Get a group of enthusiastic social misfits, add a lisp, and you've got Teem Awethum!!!!, a high school jock's worst nightmare. The superheroes, who make it their mission to fight everything that's cool, include Colin Clump as Special-ops-Quadruple-Extra Black-Belt-Ninjitsu-Stunt-Commando and Lars Arst, Lead Master of Illusion who can make a whole class disappear by closing his eyes. One adventure sees cool kid Chet get accidentally injected with Teem's anti-cool serum. Suddenly, the hippest guy in school wants to be a member of Teem Awethum!!!!, but the forces of cool won't have any of that and are just about to give him the most atomic of wedgies when the serum starts to wear off.

PRODUCER: London, England's TV-Loonland and The Illuminated Company for Germany's ZDF

PREMISE: Once upon a time there was a little princess who lived in a castle with her parents, the King and Queen. Like most four-year-olds (and some adults), she's not happy when she doesn't get her way, but eventually learns to make the most of any situation. For example, one episode shows her bringing home a tadpole. She explores the castle to find lovely things to help him feel comfortable in his new habitat, but before she's finished, Taddy has transformed into a frog. Unfortunately, he's also keeping the residents of the castle up all night with
